Bishop Neeley Says Foreign Work Is of Utmost Importance to Church.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED

DEACONS AND DEACONESSES ARE ORDAINED.

The value of foreign missions for the welfare and progress of the church and the importance of the South American mission were dwelt upon last night by Bishop T. B. Neeley of Buenos Ayres beceding the evening services.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the founding of the Methodist foreign mis-

Yesterday was the anniversary of the founding of the Methodist foreign mission and the work of the missionaries was the general topic for the day. In the evening Bishop Neeley defended the need of foreign missions.

"Some there are," he said, "who declare that we should support the home missions but declare that the foreign mission is needless. We have a great field for missionary work at home. Utah itself presents an unlimited field for such work, but we must not neglect the foreign missions. Do something at home and then go abroad. This is the spirit of the real Christian missionary. It is the spirit that should prevail.

"Of all the foreign missions there is "Of all the foreign missions there is none greater than that in South America. Some people don't believe that we can convert the Spanish Roman Catholics of that country. We can convert them and we are doing it right along, and therefore we should have more assistance. You can convert the Spanish just as you convert those in the United States. But we need more help.

Churches Are Needed.

everything in Valparaiso and destroyed everything in Valparaiso and we need money for churches, schools and other buildings. The earthquake and the fire that followed were worse than those in San Francisco. For nearly a year we have had no church there. We met in rooms and in tents. We ought to have $30,000 or $40,000 for a church right away. "We ought to have a million dollars.

$30,000 or $40,000 for a church right away.

"We ought to have a million dollars. I could use $250,000 right away without wasting a single cent of it. We can convert the Spanish and keep them converted if we are given the right help. The last South American conference raised $40,000 itself. That is pretty good for poor people, don't you think so?

"I say that the church must maintain its foreign missions. That is necessary. The home mission is needful, but so is the foreign mission and all should assist in the work. South America has not been given due credit yet, but we are there to stay and we are doing the work."

Have Dedication Service.

The ceremony of dedicating the new Liberty Park church was presided over by Bishop Neeley, assisted by the Rev. C. E. Parker, pastor of the church. The services were impressive and were largely attended. In his address Bishop Neeley spoke of the importance of remembering that the church is the house of God and that the minister should be the man of God in all that the term implies. After God in all that the term implies, After the dedication services Mrs. Grace Mat-tler and Mrs. Gertrude Beecker were ordained deacenesses.

At 10 o'clock yesterday foreneon a conference love feast was held at the First M. E. church, led by the Rev. E. E. Mork. The meeting of the conference will be held again this morning at 9:30 o'clock, at which time the reading of the appointments for the pulpits in the state for the ensuing year will be announced.

AMUSEMENTS

ammed Sait Lake's popular little vaude-ille theatre to the doors, the Lyric start-d off its fall and winter season last

The entertainment given contained real artists who hardly allow one dull moment during the evening.

The Lutz brothers are corkers in their novelty act in which some marvelous title shooting is done by the "Armless Wonder." who also handles hammer, saw, nails and lumber with his feet in a manner that would send many a carpenter to the tallest timber.

John and May Burke present a laughable skit in which the former gives a clever impersonation of Messenger Boy 22, while May is a hit in her portrayal of the society belle and the soubrette, introducing the latest songs. nent during the evening.

ciety belle and the soubrette, introducing the latest songs.

"Peaches" made a hit along with his partners, Gavin and Platt, in a neat act dressed up with special scenery.

"Peaches" is an intelligent Boston bull terrier and created lots of fun. & Gavin and Platt are vocalists and introduce some good comedy.

Tom Gillen won a home as Finnegan's friend with witty songs and stories, as did fore the congregation of the First M. E. church. His address closed a day of active work, a meeting of the Methodist conference, morning services and the dedication of the Liberty park church preceding the evening services.

Tom Gillen won a home as Finnegan's friend with witty songs and stories, as did Grace Simpson in a brilliant monologue full of snappy jokes and song sensations. Baby Dorothy caught the crowd with her new illustrated songs and the Lyric-scope is a hummer.

sense of the word from the opening to the final curtain. Miss Pringle's company is texceptionally well cast, costumes are elegant and the production is mounted sumptuously. There's a story worth telling in "The Chorus Girl" and the playwright has handled it in a way that reaches the hearts of an audience with quick, sure strokes. There is a world of pathos and humor in lines and situations, delightfully commingled. The love story is of the simple, every day kind you and I know of, and there are here and there through the action the pretty little scenes that carry you to the footlights and involuntarily give you in spirit a little part to do toward the denouement.

The presentation of the play itself, however, last night, scored no more of a hit than did the specialties introduced by the members of the company. Miss Pringle has associated with her some of the cleverest and most talented specialty people seen at the Grand in several seasons and their work last night brought them repeated curtain calls.

Altogether the show is excellent and should prove a big drawing card this week at the Grand.

The change of bill at the now popular

The change of bill at the now popular Family theatre yesterday called for all the neat little theatre could hold at each performance. Little Mae Miller made her first appearance as the illustrated song singer and won the hearts of those present from her first song. The piano expert, J. William Ireland, is "there with the goods," and the new illustrated slides are great. Performances every afternoon and evening.

The Orpheum opens its fourth week to-night with a program that is said to be exceptionally fine. The advance sale in-dicates a continuation of the tremendous business the house has been doing.
